To Whom it May Concern

Mike Landay has been providing EIP with Japanese to English translations of patent documents since 2003.

Over this period he has supplied EIP with approximately 80 translations of subject matter including semiconductor radiation detectors; mobile radio space diversity systems; image sensors; solid state photodetection devices; cordless telephones; mobile phones; telephone switching systems; substrate mounting technology; semiconductor memory devices; data synchronization; frequency stabilization; security for wireless devices; data communications.

As a former Japanese to English translator myself, I feel qualified to say that Mr. Landay's work is of an excellent standard, both in terms of quality of translation and timeliness of delivery.

Yours sincerely,

Chris Price
